Six flags adventure

It all started on a Friday morning and Solomon and I were skipping school to start heading down to Six Flags in Chicago and we could see the park and we got so excited that we _____ Verb _____ when we turned into Six Flags and there was a _____ Adjective _____ number of cars in line waiting also so we got all bummed, but as we got closer to the Superman ride (our favorite) and it was next to this _____ Noun _____ which was crazy big also. When we finally paid for our parking ticket to get in we had to wait in another line to actually get in to where all the rides are at and we were very _____ Adjective _____ with all the other people sitting in line also. We couldn't see the entrance because we are very _____ Adjective _____. After a long wait we got to the gate and we were so _____ Adjective _____ it wasn't even funny and since it took us so long we decided to go straight to the Superman. When we got there the workers were very _____ Adjective _____ and that surprised me! We were strapped in our seats waiting to start the ride and everyone was already screaming and being _____ Adjective _____ and we didn't even start yet! It was very funny. After we got off the ride we started heading to the next ride and saw a _____ Noun _____ or people and we looked to each other and Solomon said, "they better be very diligent otherwise they might get kicked out and they wouldn't have any rides at all! As we started to walk up to them and ask them why they were on strike and as we got closer we were very _____ Adjective _____ and notice that the police were walking up to them so we walked away and went on to the next ride. So by the end of the day Solomon and I got in our car and drove home after a long day of fun.
