Leonard Proper Noun Nimoy was born on March 26, 1931, in the West End[9] of Boston, Massachusetts, the son of Adjective immigrants from Iziaslav, Ukraine.[10][11][12] His parents left Iziaslav separately-- his father first walking over the border into Poland while his mother and grandmother were Verb - Past Participle out of the Soviet Union in a horse-drawn wagon by hiding under Verb - Base Form of Noun - Plural. [13]:7 They reunited after arriving in the United States.[14] His mother, Dora (ne Spinner), was a homemaker, and his father, Max Nimoy, owned a barbershop in the Mattapan section of Boston.[15][16] He had an elder brother, Melvin.[1]

As a child, Nimoy took miscellaneous Verb to supplement his family's Verb - Present Tense, including selling newspapers and greeting cards, shining shoes, or setting up chairs in theaters, and when he got older, selling vacuum cleaners.[13]:12 He also began acting at the age of eight in a children's and neighborhood theater.[14] His parents wanted him to attend college and pursue a stable career, or even learn to play the accordion, so he could always make a living, but his grandfather to him to do what he then wanted to do most, to become an Proper Noun. [17] Nimoy also realized he had an aptitude for Verb - Base Form, which he developed while a member of his synagogue's choir.[13]:17 His singing during his bar mitzvah at age 13 was so good that he was asked to repeat his performance the following week at another synagogue. "He is still the only man I know whose Noun was two bar Noun - Plural good!," said William Shatner.[13]:18
