But just between you and me

They're

Oh,           Noun           in the morning,           Noun           at night

          Noun Plural           to           Verb Base Form           you and           Noun Plural           to recognize

And as the world is getting           Adjective - Ends in ER          , small things take up all your           Noun          

          Proper Noun           would have had a field day if he could have got online

And friends it's not           Noun           that           Verb Present ends in S           you

It's when those who hate you are allowed

To sell you that you're a           Adjective                     Noun          

The entire world           Verb Present ends in S          

And that you're the           Noun          , no not the           Noun          

But that your           Noun           will only cease

If you come           Verb Base Form           on radiant           Noun          

At the           Adjective                     Noun
