Starship Troopers

I always get the shakes before a Noun. I've had the Noun Plural, of course, and the Adjective preparation, and it stands to reason that I can't really be Adjective. The ship's medical professional has checked my Part of Body waves and asked me Adjective questions while I was asleep and he tells me that it isn't Emotion, it isn't anything important - it's just like the trembling of an Adjective race Animal in the Verb Present ends in ING gate. I couldn't say about that; I've never been a race same animal. But the fact is: I'm scared Adjective, every time.
