Work out story

This is the story of a           Pronoun           with a big           Noun          . She wanted to make a kid's           Noun          , but it was too           Adjective           in the summer to get started. So, instead, she started a           Noun           with a stack of           Noun Plural           in a parking           Noun          .

The           Event           started with           Adjective                     Noun                     Noun           then it grew to 100 and then 250 ! It was           Verb Present ends in ING                     Noun           ! Camp Gladiator was born. What started as one 4 week           Noun          , grew over the years to 700           Noun Plural          , 50,000           Animal (plural)          , and 3,000           Noun Plural           !

Today, we are impacting           Noun Plural           across the           Noun          .           Verb Present ends in ING           the physical fitness and ultimately the           Noun Plural           of as many           Animal (plural)           as possible.

But we aren's           Verb Present ends in ING           now. We will continue to           Verb Base Form           and expand to everywhere there are           Animal (plural)          . From Australia to           Proper Noun           and South Africa to           Proper Noun          , Camp Gladiator will continue to           Verb Base Form          .
