McColloch in the American City

_____ : _____ Noun and _____ Noun in the American City, Matthew Desmond,

2016. This won the Pulitzer for General Non-Fiction, and it deserves a prize. It looks at the issue of _____ Noun in the case study of Milwaukee during the 2007-2009 Great Recession years. Desmond, now a _____ Noun at Harvard, _____ Verb Past Tense in a trailer park and in the _____ Location North Side ghetto, for two years, as a participant-informer. He followed the large bottom end of the housing world, focusing on the one-tenth or so of all American families who get evicted in their life-times.

He doesn't sugar coat things or set up poor people as _____ Adverb virtuous. A lot of them had addiction in the their worlds, past or present. Generally speaking, those able to get and hold a steady full-time job rise above the eviction level. Plenty of people, however, who worked as many part-time hours as they could get, do fall into it, and people too _____ Adjective or physically or mentally challenged to _____ Verb Base Form steadily do. As do former addicts/prisoners, now trying for a better path.

Eviction wreaks havoc on already fraught worlds. The extra costs, the time-consuming misery of _____ Verb Present ends in ING for another place, which, usually, is, at first, worse than the last, the disruption to children and school, and sometimes the resulting loss of a job, make _____ Noun a cause AND a symptom of deep _____ Noun.

How can we _____ Verb Base Form this? Desmond advocates strongly for extending _____ Adjective _____ Noun Plural, that require that a tenant spend only 30% of their income on _____ Noun Plural, while the government picks up the rest, are key. Requiring landlords to meet certain rental price guidelines and make only reasonable profits, are also key. The owner of the 130 trailer park in South Milwaukee, where _____ Noun Plural

_____ Verb Past Tense in conditions ranging from inadequate to gross squalor, produces enough profits to place its owner in the upper 1% of income. Federal assistance in basic household repair and maintenance would create jobs, AND _____ Verb Base Form the housing stock at the bottom end. Rebuilding the bottom third of housing, in a Green way, would also help on many fronts. I _____ Verb Base Form you all to _____ Verb Base Form this
