Fast forward to the near future at Schwab and a MMS Townhall.

It was a beautiful day In Orlando, Fred and Steve were on their way to the presentation room and stopped at the break room for coffee and Food.

Fred shouted, quick bring me a Noun since the coffee maker was over pouring. Once the situation was under control, they went to the room to prepare for the meeting.

As they prepped for the slides on how MMS were the pioneers who shifted from an organization from a Noun mainframe environment to a digital environment, Fred spilled his coffee on the keyboard and computer, frying the computer circuits. The computer went blank and they lost the PowerPoint presentation.

Fred began to panic, how are We going to talk about how we have developed new ways of working and thinking.

Steve said Verb Base Form, this is Adjective, you know this stuff and don't be Verb Base Form

. Fred said how are we going to describe through change leadership we have adapted to a world of encouragement and innovation, incorporating digistation and an increased use of technology to improve the client experience of our employees, clients, and business partners.

Steve

said you know _____, now let's practice without the PowerPoint and improvise the presentation.
