My Brush with the Law

So I was _____ Verb Past Tense by the police last night and as such, was subjected to the _____ Noun of being processed at the police station. The crime, if you can call it that, was _____ Adverb minor, I was caught drinking and _____ Verb Present ends in ING which apparently requires me to _____ Verb Base Form through all these legal hoops at the station. I thought I'd take this time to share with you this new and _____ Adjective experience.

So first I was ushered into their _____ Adjective interrogation _____ Noun. In there I was greeted by Constable _____ First Name of a Person and Sargent _____ First Name of a Person who subjected me to an intense game of " _____ Adjective cop _____ Adjective cop." I was in that room for _____ Number hours where they wore me down and successfully _____ Verb Past Tense a confession out of me. After this, they took my _____ Part of Body _____ Repeat Last Part of Body print pushing my _____ Adverb into the inkpad to ensure a good print. I was then asked to stand still while they took my crime photo, word of advice, don't make a(n) _____ Adjective face they do not like this and we had to do at least _____ Number reshoots because I habitually make _____ Repeat Last Adjective faces when someone takes my photo. Phew! So that was my _____ Adjective experience and boy I was glad when it was all over and my _____ Family Member posted my bail.
