The Lost Relic, Pt. 1

04/07/1975

It was a dark and _____ night. I had just recieved a note from Dr. Barnes saying that an illegal corporation going by the name, "The _____" has been doing research on a lost relic located somewhere in the jungles of _____. I quickly jumped into my _____ and took the long and _____ hour drive to his office. When I reached his office, he was eager to see me. He exclaimed, " _____!" and quickly rushed me to his study. He showed me the photos of the relic along with his extensive collection of _____ and his _____. He said, "It was revealed to me that the relic is in fact the Golden _____, the one we've been searching for the past _____ years. It is rumoured that this relic has the ability to force others to _____. This company has been known for their unethical practices, and they notoriously _____ their workers. We cannot allow them to take possession of this artifact. Pack your bags immediately."

I drove home and grabbed my trunk. To survive in the jungle, I knew I would need to bring my _____, a journal, and my _____ that I cannot live without. After I securely packed those, I tucked my _____ boxes of _____ into the corner. I grabbed a few shirts, pants, and _____ . When I finished packing, I made my way to the airport. There, I saw Dr. Barnes in his _____, dressed up and ready to go. We boarded the plane and was attended by a _____ flight attendant. They offered to take our orders for food and drink. I got a glass of water and a warm sandwich, while the doctor ordered a glass of Liquid and some Adjective food. It was a long flight, and when we disembarked, we thanked the flight attendant and Verb Past Tense the pilot. Our adventure had just begun.
