After supper, Atticus sat down with the paper and called, "Scout, ready to _____?"

The Lord _____ me more than I could bear, and I went to the _____ porch. Atticus followed me. "Something wrong, Scout?" I told Atticus I didn't feel very well and didn't think I'd go to _____ anymore if it was all right with him.

Atticus sat down in the swing and crossed his legs. His _____ wandered to his watchpocket; he said that was the only way he could _____. He waited in amiable _____, and I sought to reinforce my position: "You never went to _____ and you do all right, so I'll just stay home too. You can teach me as Granddaddy taught you 'n' Uncle Jack."

"No I can't," said Atticus. "I have to _____ a living. Besides, they'd put me in _____ if I kept you at home-dose of magnesia for you tonight and _____ tomorrow."

"I'm feeling all right, really."

"Thought so. Now, what's the matter?" Bit by bit, I told him the day's _____. "-and she said you taught me all wrong, so we can't ever read any more, ever. Please don't send me back, please sir."

Atticus _____ up and _____ to the end of the _____. When he completed his _____ of the wisteria _____ he strolled back to me.

"First of all," he said, "if you can learn a simple trick, Scout, you'll get along a lot better with all kinds of folks.

You never really understand a _____ until you consider things from his point of view-"

"Sir?"

"-until you climb into his skin and walk around in it," Atticus said I had learned many things today, and Miss Caroline had learned several things herself. She had learned not to hand _____ Noun to a Cunningham, for one thing, but if Walter and I had put ourselves in her _____ Noun we'd have seen it was an honest mistake on her part. We could not expect her to learn all of Maycomb's ways in one day, and we could not hold her responsible when she knew no better.

"I'll be dogged," I said. "I didn't know better than not to read to her, and she held me responsible-listen Atticus, I don't have to go to school!" I was bursting with a sudden thought. "Burriss Ewell, remember? He just goes to _____ Noun on the first day. The _____ Adjective lady reckons she's carried out the law when she gets his name on the roll-"

"You can't do that, Scout," Atticus said. "Sometimes it's better to bend the _____ Noun a little in special _____ Noun Plural. In your case, the law remains _____ Adjective. So to _____ Noun, you must go."
