Deepest Apologies

Dear Mrs. _____, Last Name

I am truly _____ for disrupting yesterday's class on the native customs of the _____ tribes of (the) _____. It was rude of me to burst out _____ when you explained that the tribal chief wore a/an _____ feathered headpiece in the shape of a winged _____ on his _____.

And my decision to _____ in a circle with my _____ outstretched while chanting "
_____!" was very inappropriate--even though I was only trying to mimic the _____ native dance.

I understand there's a time and place for that kind of _____ --and your class was not it. I know that you _____ very hard as a teacher and deserve respect for teaching me and my fellow _____ every day. I hope you accept my sincere _____ and believe I will never exercise such _____ judgement again.

Sincerely,

Person in room
