

an unexpected adveture

1. Adjective

---

an unexpected adventure

After _____ Adjective _____ hours of driving towards their destination, max and john have been defeated by the merciless storm.

After the roads have been flooded and the trees have been blown away by the powerful wind. Max and John surrendered to the angry mother of nature and decided to spend the night in the nearest motel they could find.

After their plan to camp has ended with A sprained ankle and multiple bruises from trying to set the tent so that they could start their perfect weekend that includes camping with nature and nature only but unfortunately for them, the weather wasn't as happy or as excited as they were. or maybe flooding the world before global warming, fighting furiously with trees that are adamant that they stand strong against the ruthless wind and the earsplitting thunder accompanied with blazing lightning