A CIHR Springtime Story

Once upon a time there was an organization full of people who really enjoyed working together to advance.

They worked really hard and had many meetings quite often. Due to a global pandemic, they held all of their meetings virtually. So there wasn't opportunity to go for walks or coffees with colleagues any more. However, they were able to come up with fun new virtual games to do every now and then to get together in a new way.

This is just one of those new types of games, so hopefully it will be a lot of fun. The sun is Adjective with more warmth now, the Noun Plural are Adjective and this person at work loves the Spring season as to many. It's a chance to get outside, soak up the sun, and Adjective and have fun. Some people will be celebrating Easter this coming weekend as well. They will have large meals, or spend time with family, or have Easter egg hunts. Others will get outside and enjoy the beautiful weather.
