DEAR ABBY 7

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been together for _____number_____ years. I'm old school -- no

_____Social Media Company_____ or social media, although I do follow _____Noun Plural_____ on _____Social Media Company_____

. My wife, however, is all into it. My issue is, she thinks it's OK for her social life to be _____Adjective_____. I don't think there should be any secrets between us, and I'm feeling _____Adjective_____ about this.

Dear Abby: I can't move on from my husband's seven-year _____Noun_____

I saw something that, from my standpoint, is out of bounds for a _____Adjective_____ woman. When I asked about it, she said it's private and has nothing to do with _____Noun_____. I'm wondering if this is the _____Noun_____ I will die on. Touching her _____Noun_____ would be a major crime. But my phone is _____Adjective_____ and she knows all my passwords to it as well as the _____Noun_____. I'm thinking the _____Noun_____ is one-way, and it's not working for me. Am I an _____Noun_____, as I've been told? -- ONE-WAY IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR ONE-WAY: No, you're not an _____Noun_____. You are a _____Noun_____ who suspects his wife may be doing something _____Adjective_____ because she has become so secretive that _____Noun_____ has become an issue.

While I don't think this is the _____Noun_____ you will die on, it may be the one your _____Noun_____ will die on, because, without _____Noun_____, there can be no marriage.

Because you and your wife can no longer _____ verb present tense modifying noun _____ Adverb, offer her the option of _____ Verb Present ends in ING. If she agrees, it may save your _____ Noun. If she doesn't, then go without her to help you figure out what your next steps should be.
