Dr. So-and-so vs. Something

Once, there was a           Noun           where bunnies and           Plural noun           lived           Adverb          . The world was           Adjective           until Dr.           Name of a person           came to the planet and           Verb (transitive) (past tense)           all the bunnies and           Plural noun          . Then there was           Noun          . But a           Type of group           of bunnies and           Plural noun           joined together and made a           Adjective           plan to destroy Dr.           Same name as before          . The plan was to shove           Plural noun           all through his           Noun           and           Verb (transitive)           his           Plural noun           until they fessed up where he was           Verb ending in ing          . After getting the information, they blew up the           Noun           and made their escape to           Place           to regroup. There, they pushed the           Noun           on the destroyer remote to blow up the           Noun           where he had once lived, the           noun           that had been so cruel to him.

Then, out of nowhere, the evil Dr.           Same name as before           appeared and said,           Exclamation          ; and promptly           Motion verb (past tense)           away. After seeing him, the           Plural noun           and bunnies got their           Noun           and started to chase him. They           Verb (transitive) (past tense)           him to the ends of the earth then said, "Your           Noun           of evil is over! We will now           Adverb                     Verb (transitive)           your           Body part          "; He said, "No,           Exclamation           please have mercy on my           Noun           Besides, it wasn't me! It was my           Noun           I just came for           Plural noun           because one of your bunnies kicked me in the           Body part           when

I walked out of my Place; And they lived Adverb ever after!
