The Boy

Hi, my name is           Your name          . Some people tell me i'm           Adjective          . But I dont believe them. My           Noun           told me that i'm special. shes so           Adjective           and           Adjective          . yesterday i           Verb           myself outside and she said that she wishes that i never came out. I thought that she meant she           Past tense                     verb           that i never went outside so i didnt get           Verb           but then my           Noun           told me that she meant she wished i was never born. today i got mad and stuck my           Plural noun           tail in the           Noun          . he caught on fire. so then i got a           Noun           to put the           Noun           out called gasoline. the fire just got bigger. my           Noun           came in just then and got a           Noun          Noun          . i thought that extinguisher meant make bigger so i took the           Noun           thingy and pointed it away. it got all over the           Noun           and           Noun           said she was going to           Verb           me. i thought that meant that she would make me bigger so i got           Emotion           until dad           Verb           me what it really meant. i got really mad at           Noun           so i took this thing my dad calls a           Noun           and           Verb           to shoot her....but apparently i was holding it backwards. i in the           Location           now. heres a list of things people call me daily.

          Adjective                     Adjective          

2.)and the rest i cant spell so ill just put a whole bunch of           Adjective           letters.
