Santa goes to town

As all of the children were waiting, snuggled in their _____^{Noun}... when it was a completely different story for Santa. Santa was getting all of his presents packed in his _____^{Noun}, with help of the jolly 'ol workers.

The reindeer were getting their special Christmas rub down, feed, and getting big gulps of _____^{Adjective} _____^{Noun}. As Santa was hopping in his sleigh, one of his workers gave him a big cup full of hot chocolate.

He shouted out all of his reindeer's names, and took off in the cool _____^{Adjective} night. As he was delivering all of the presents to the hopeful children's houses, there shot a problem. His danger meter ... his fuel was low!

As his eyes saw that horrific sight, he told his reindeer to clatter down. They crashed down, luckily, one of his workers delivered fuel to Santa's location. Him and his team arose again, jolly as ever! One house by one, by the end of the night, all of the hopeful children's wishes came true. When Santa was done, his plump pink lips gave a smile, his head arose, and his belly was as fat as ever. He was proud of his, yet again, accomplishment. As the children awakened, in their _____^{Noun} and p.j.s, they were _____^{Adjective} to see what they had gotten. The families snuggled up by the fires, opening each present with care, one by one. All what they wanted, all made them smile. The Christmas was built.
