The apes and two travelers

TWO MEN, one who always spoke the Noun and the other who told nothing but ______ were traveling together and by chance came to the land of Apes. One of the Apes, who had raised himself to be king, commanded them to be ______ and brought before him, that he might know what was said of him among men. He ordered at the same time that all the Apes be arranged in a long row on his right hand and on his left, and that a throne be placed for him, as was the custom among men. After these preparations he signified that the two men should be brought before him, and ______them with this salutation: 'What sort of a king do I seem to you to be, O strangers?' The Lying Traveler replied, 'You seem to me a most _____king.' 'And what is your estimate of those _____of yourself, fit at least to be ambassadors and ______of armies.' The Ape and all his court, _______with the lie, commanded that a handsome present be given to the flatterer.

On this the truthful Traveler thought to himself, 'If so great a reward be given for a lie, with what gift may not I be rewarded, if, according to my custom, I tell the truth?' The Ape quickly turned to him. 'And pray how do I and these my friends around me seem to you?' 'Thou _____, he said, 'a most excellent Ape, and all these thy companions after thy example are excellent Apes too.'

The King of the Apes, ______at hearing these truths, gave him over to the teeth and claws of his companions.
