Doctors Visit Gone Bad

I _____<sup>Past tense verb</sup> to the floor and began crying as I took a painful shot to the arm. Dr. Siler told me to get back on the _____<sup>Noun</sup> and quit being and I quote "Soooo dramatic!". How can I not be dramatic when they are sticking me with a needle the size of a swing?! it didn't seem like she cared how big the needle was and how much pain and torture it brought to me! I thought Doctors were supposed to be nice! Not _____<sup>Adjective</sup> I think they were trying to make me pee my pants. When I finally obeyed Dr. Siler, and sat back down in the dreaded patient chair, seven _____<sup>Noun</sup> came out of nowhere and held me down. I tried to _____<sup>Verb</sup> out of their grip, but they held fast. Next, Dr. Siler came in the room with a _____<sup>Adjective</sup> surprise. The surprise was a _____<sup>Noun</sup> I was so scared and felt warmth spreading down my _____<sup>Noun</sup>. Then, I woke up and sat up _____<sup>Adverb</sup>. It was all a dream. I sighed in relief. It was that instance when I realized where I was. I looked around at my surroundings and saw the _____<sup>Adjective</sup> Dr. Siler. When I was about to run she handed me a _____<sup>Noun</sup>. After that, it was all cool.
